FURTHER PROGRESS NORTH OF ARRAS

French Captured Part of Village of Carency; Took 230 Prisoners

GERMANS SUFFERED VERY HEAVY LOSSES

French Aviator Set Fire to Hangar at Maubeuge; Shells Fall in Bergues

Paris, May 11.—The French war office issued the following statement to-day:

In Belguim, near St. Georges, the Germans endeavored by a night attack to recapture the positions taken by us the day before yesterday. They were repulsed.

To the north of Arras our progress was continued. On Monday evening we took possession first of the cemetery and then of the eastern part of the village of Carency, and also a road from Carency to Suaches. Carency, where we took 230 more prisoners, including three officers, and captured several machine guns, now is invested by our troops on the three sides and is reduced to precarious communication with the German lines.

Forces brought up by the enemy from Lens and from Douai in automobiles were not successful at any place in getting the advantage. Four strong counter attacks broke down under our fire during the afternoon of Monday, the enemy at the same time suffering very heavy losses.

These attacks took place in front of Loos, at Notre Dame de Lorette, at Sauches and Neuville Saint Vaast. At last-mentioned place we gained territory, at the same time making about 160 prisoners. The number of officers taken by us up to yesterday evening is more than fifty.

On Monday night the enemy suffered a further check. The counter attack, to the north of Neuville Saint Vaast, preceded by a violent bombardment, were repulsed completely and we retained all the ground gained, at the same time inflicting very heavy losses on our assailants. On the remainder of the front from Loos to Arras there was no counter attack yesterday.

Following the bombardment of Dunkirk, reported yesterday morning, during which three shells fell without hurting anybody or inflicting any damage, the Germans threw eleven shells on the town of Bergues, five miles southeast of Dunkirk. Twelve persons were killed and eleven were wounded. Our batteries at once opened fire and they put a stop to the shelling of the enemy, which was not resumed during the day.

On the rest of the front there has been nothing to report.

One of our aviators yesterday bombarded a hangar for the dirigible balloons at Maubeuge and started a fire. An aviator of the enemy threw bombs on the railroad station at Doullens, 20 miles north of Amiens, but without any damage. Another aviator of the enemy, pursued by the Aronne and Meuse by a French aviator, was compelled to come down within the German lines, where his machine took fire. On the other hand the Germans brought down yesterday a British aviator and British soldiers were successful in bringing down two German aircrafts.

London, May 11.—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, reported yesterday that there was no change in the general situation:

"Our line to the east of Ypres, in spite of repeated attacks by the enemy, is substantially the same as that to which we withdrew on the night of May 3-4," he said in his report to the war office. "During the fighting in this quarter yesterday the enemy made five unsuccessful attacks, and his losses in these failures were very heavy. On the front of the first army the fighting to-day has been confined to artillery action."

Paris, May 11.—The following communiqué was issued by the war office last night:

"To the north of Arras, in spite of several German counter-attacks, we have maintained all our gains of yesterday and have advanced to certain points notably between Carency and Suaches."

"Our success is developing. The total number of prisoners at 2 o'clock today exceed 300." Among these were about 40 officers, including a colonel.

"We have captured in the last two days more than 10 cannon and 15 machine guns."

"At Berry-au-Bac a German attack has been repulsed, as well as one in the forest of Le Prete."

HANGED HIMSELF.

TURKS' LOSSES ARE ESTIMATED AT 45,000

Allied Troops on Gallipoli Peninsula Continued Advance on Friday and Saturday

HAVOC WROUGHT BY BIG GUNS OF FLEET

Hospitals at Constantinople Cannot Accommodate All the Wounded

London, May 11.—The allied troops on the Gallipoli Peninsula continued their advance on Friday and Saturday, according to an Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. They are reported to have occupied important positions after desperate resistance offered by the Turks, whose total losses are estimated at 45,000 men.

The hospitals in Constantinople are said to be so crowded that wounded are being sent to Konieh, in Asia Minor.

London, May 11.—A Reuter dispatch from Athens quotes the following from a private letter, dated May 6, regarding the operations in the Dardanelles:

"Ever since daylight on April 23 the bombardment from the Gulf of Saros and the Dardanelles has been incessant, causing appalling destruction of life and property.

Constantinople papers publish interviews with wounded Turks who describe the terrible artillery and machine gun fire which is turning the earthworks into a veritable hell.

Bayonet charges continue in the ravines, and the peninsula is strewn with dead.

Since April 23 six large transports with 7,000 or 8,000 wounded have arrived in Constantinople from the peninsula, testifying to the determined character of the fighting."

EIGHT BODIES WERE BROUGHT TO LAND

More May Be Found Near the Spot Where the Lusitania Sank

Queenstown, May 11.—The body of Albert Thompson, of Toronto, brought in by an admiralty trawler last night, was found drifting with wreckage near the coast not far from the scene of the Lusitania disaster, which leads to the hope that additional bodies may be found in that vicinity.

Seven unidentified bodies also were landed at Baltimore, forty-seven miles southwest of Cork, but the weather conditions are such that it is not considered probable that many more will be found in that immediate vicinity, and all hope of finding further survivors now has been abandoned.

A current of from two and one-half to three knots races along Old Head of Kinsale, and this has been augmented by a stiff east wind. At the end of the eight or nine days bodies may be carried ashore on the west coast of Ireland. The winds ordinarily prevailing would have brought bodies ashore on the Atlantic coast of Cornwall, Eng.

The Cunard company, after much trouble, has sent a tug to the scene of the disaster with instructions to run into the nearest cove and inform Cunard officials here if even a single body is found.

There are indications that the heavy death roll among the American men in the first-cabins was due to scarcity of life-belts, many of them having given the life-preservers they had obtained to women. There is a preponderance of testimony that no American man got into a boat until after he had been thrown into the water.

Webb Wade, secretary of A. G. Vanderbilt, has not been able yet to arrange with the authorities to comply with his request that all necessary tugs be chartered at the expense of the Vanderbilt family to search for other bodies as well as that of Mr. Vanderbilt.

When the Lusitania was in her death throes there was no cooler group aboard than that composed of Mme. Marie de Page, Herbert Stone, Lindell Bates, Jr. and Dr. J. T. Houghton. The last-named was the only survivor of the party. This little band guided women and children, supplied them with life-belts, bound up the wounds of other passengers and then plunged hopelessly into the sea, having given up their own life-preservers.

Another throng of anxious friends and relatives arrived here last night, but the chances of identifying more of the dead are remote, as the great piles in the cemetery are mixed with those buried as unknown, while other bodies which come ashore soon will be beyond identification.

"At Berry-au-Bac a German attack has been repulsed, as well as one in the forest of Le Prete."

HANGED HIMSELF.

Seattle, May 11.—Ernest V. aged 59, who had for many years conducted a downtown merchant tailoring establishment, hanged himself to-day in the garden of his home.

DEAD LAY IN GREAT HEAPS, STATES REPORT

Enemy Suffered Enormous Losses in Fruitless Attack in Region of Ussok Pass

Petrograd, May 11.—An official statement issued last night by general headquarters said:

"In the region of Ussok Pass the enemy made a fruitless attack on Saturday. Seried columns of the enemy attacked impetuously a position held by two of our companies in a sector of the Javorino mountain chain, on the slopes above Lomnitz. The enemy's losses were so heavy that heaps of bodies interfered with the fire from our trenches. Our troops, in spite of the enemy's machine gun fire, left their trenches and swept the enemy from the whole region."

The same day, after a desperate fight, the enemy forced a Russian detachment near the village of Zalevki to retire to the left bank of the Danube. On Sunday night our vanguards, having crossed the Danube, attacked the enemy on the Chaborki front, as far as the mouth of the Stry. We took 1,300 prisoners, one gun and many machine guns."

Geneva, May 11.—All Italian officers and men in Switzerland up to the age of thirty-four were ordered yesterday to rejoin their regiments immediately. Austrian and Bavarian forces are concentrating in the Tyrol.

Rome, May 11.—Military preparations pointing to Austria as an inevitable antagonist are so thorough and vigorous that a conflict seems unavoidable.

Discussions among even the opposition parties virtually have ceased. Only the irreconcilable Socialists, whose deputies met in the chamber to-day, still oppose Italy's participation in the war and their attitude is believed to be shaped more by a desire for consistency than because of opposition to a war.

Paris, May 11.—Another version of the territorial concessions Austria-Hungary is said to have proposed to Italy has been printed by the Matto Agency of Naples, and telegraphed to the Havas Agency by its Rome correspondent.

According to this report, Austria is willing to cede part of the province of Trent to Italy, together with a strip of territory in the region of the Isonzo river, which empties into the Gulf of Trieste. Trieste itself is excluded absolutely, as well as Istria and Pola.

The Italian cabinet is said to have considered these concessions insufficient and made a counter-proposal, demanding all of Trent up to Brenner (a mountain pass of Tyrol, on the railroad line connecting Innsbruck with Bozen) and offering the shortest route between Central Germany and Italy, together with Trieste and Istria, including Pola, Italy, the Matto agency says, will insist

ITALY SOON WILL TAKE PART IN WAR

Dispatch From Rome Says There is No Likelihood of Peaceful Settlement

Paris, May 11.—It is being rumored persistently in Paris that Germany and Austria already have declared or are about to declare war on Italy in anticipation of such action on her part against themselves. This report, however, has received no confirmation of any kind.

Another rumor current on the Bourse was that the Italian government had signed an agreement with the allies, Great Britain, France and Russia, to take part in the war not later than May 26. This rumor also is without confirmation.

Geneva, May 11.—All Italian officers and men in Switzerland up to the age of thirty-four were ordered yesterday to rejoin their regiments immediately. Austrian and Bavarian forces are concentrating in the Tyrol.

When the orders came to retire, I ordered Major W. R. Marshall to take out the remnants of two platoons. I remained in the second line with seven men and tried to find out how things were in the redoubts, but machine guns drove us back. The shell and rifle fire all day was awful; our guns were absent.

"Major Marshall and I are the only two officers of the 4th Highlanders who escaped unharmed. We had to remain in action until May 3, losing men every day. Our battalion lost more heavily than any other engaged, but we held our ground till the British came up. Amongst the officers missing half may be prisoners. I hope they all are.

"The way the Highlanders fought was like a mad dog. They charged and when the ammunition gave out they held the redoubts with their bayonets.

"We now are having a few days rest trying to re-fit."

Upon obtaining Trieste, but is ready to give Austria commercial guarantees.

The Italian cabinet is said to have considered these concessions insufficient and made a counter-proposal, demanding all of Trent up to Brenner (a mountain pass of Tyrol, on the railroad line connecting Innsbruck with Bozen) and offering the shortest route between Central Germany and Italy, together with Trieste and Istria, including Pola, Italy, the Matto agency says, will insist

ROBLIN GOVERNMENT ABOUT TO RESIGN

Winnipeg, May 11.—The Roblin government will hand in its resignation at noon to-morrow.

T. C. Norris, Liberal member for Lansdowne, is busy to-day forming a new cabinet, which will include Messrs. Hudson, Johnson, Winkler and Grierson and Dr. J. W. Armstrong, member for Gladstone.

Several members on the government side of the House will resign, and the men who have been offered portfolios will run in their ridings. In this way a general election will be avoided.

USED BAYONETS TO HOLD THEIR GROUND

Toronto Highlanders Fought
Splendidly, Says Lieut.-
Col. J. A. Currie

ALL OFFICERS BUT TWO WERE WOUNDED

London, May 11.—A letter received here to-day from Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Currie, who commands the Fifteenth Battalion (15th Highlanders, Toronto), gives details of the recent work of the Toronto Highlanders in Belgium. Referring to the big engagement, Lieut.-Colonel Currie says:

"The Canadian division, hurrying to replace the French, held the Germans, making desperate attempts to drive them back. Three or four battalions were cut up badly. We held the ground all next day. At noon the Germans attacked the Royal Highlanders and the 4th Highlanders with gas and rifle fire, but we drove them off with heavy loss and few casualties on our side. The Montreal Highlanders, however, had to swing back to straighten the line. This weakened our position, which we were ordered to hold at all costs.

Next morning the Germans attacked us with gas. Then there was a terrible cannonade and rifle fire. Our re-doubts carried out the orders, fighting to the last man.

"In the evening orders came to retire and the British took over our supporting trenches in the second line.

"The Germans all day assaulted St. Julien, where Capt. G. M. Alexander had his company. Both he and Capt. E. Y. Cory, who had gathered a handful of French, held the northeast corner of the village till the last. No one got away. They carried out their orders to the letter.

"When the orders came to retire, I ordered Major W. R. Marshall to take out the remnants of two platoons. I remained in the second line with seven men and tried to find out how things were in the redoubts, but machine guns drove us back. The shell and rifle fire all day was awful; our guns were absent.

"Major Marshall and I are the only two officers of the 4th Highlanders who escaped unharmed. We had to remain in action until May 3, losing men every day. Our battalion lost more heavily than any other engaged, but we held our ground till the British came up. Amongst the officers missing half may be prisoners. I hope they all are.

LOOK TO PRESIDENT TO MARK OUT COURSE

Members of Committees of United States Congress Express Their Views

Montrose, Pa., May 10.—"The wanton slaughter of non-combatant passengers and crew by the sinking of the Lusitania without affording them the slightest opportunity for escape, is abhorrent to every ethical and moral conception, and destructive of the boundary lines within which so-called civilized warfare has been carried on," said W. D. P. Allyn, a member of the foreign affairs committee of the House of Representatives. "A grave responsibility now rests on the president to meet this serious international situation, for our own citizens were among the slain. In this responsibility he will have the full measure of public support."

"Nationally we are aggrieved. Therefore we must come to a clear understanding with Germany, and this without delay, for we cannot accept the Faibis, the Gulf Light and the Lusitania cases as within the settled policy of maritime warfare."

Canton, O., May 11.—"The sinking of the Lusitania is the most deplorable incident of the European war," said Atlee Pomerene, a member of the foreign relations committee of the Senate. "Every man with the milk of human kindness in his breast condemns any policy of any nation that leads to the slaughter without warning of babies, women and non-combatants. What we ought to do must depend upon the facts after they are fully disclosed."

The president is better able to learn them than anyone else. When they are known I have every confidence that his wisdom, his courage and his policy will mark out a course to be pursued in keeping with our best traditions and which will meet the approval of all true Americans. Now let us all, with calmness, await his judgment."

Vaidosat, Ga., May 11.—"I cannot express my unbounded confidence in the wisdom and patriotism of President Wilson in handling this delicate and deplorable situation," said J. Walker, a member of the foreign affairs committee of the House.

"LET THEM THINK," SAID BERNSTORFF

Ambassador's Reply When Asked What He Thought Americans Would Think

New York, May 10.—"Let them think," Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, is quoted as having said when asked what he thought the American people would think of the torpedoing of the Lusitania. His final statement, after refusing to answer a rapid fire of questions by reporters, was that he would say nothing until proof was furnished that the Lusitania had in fact been torpedoed by a German submarine.

At the railroads station, as he was about to leave for Washington, the ambassador was subject to a battery of interrogations, including the reference to the American public opinion.

"Not one word," he said. "Let them think."

"I am my government's representative; I cannot say a word," he shouted later to another query.

"Does that mean that you will make no statement until it is proved that the Lusitania was torpedoed by a German submarine?" said the interviewer.

"That's it exactly," he replied. "I have not sufficient information on which to make a statement."

Washington, May 11.—Count von Bernstorff reiterated yesterday what he said on leaving New York, to the effect that he could not discuss the Lusitania tragedy because he had nothing official from his government on the subject.

The ambassador denied that he had advance knowledge from Germany of an intention to sink the Lusitania.

It was said at the German embassy, in response to inquiries that an anonymous letter had been received there threatening that the embassy would be blown up at 1:30 or 2 o'clock Monday morning. A copy of this communication, substantially the same as that delivered at the German embassy, was received by a newspaper, and this caused the inquiries.

On their own initiative, the Washington police have placed a guard around the German embassy.

ALL HAD BEEN MADE PUBLIC IN PAPERS

W. T. R. Preston Told Judge His Book Contained Nothing New About Strathcona

London, May 11.—Mr. Justice Darling yesterday heard the action for damages for libel brought by W. T. R. Preston, late trade commissioner for Canada, against the Daily News of London, respecting its criticism of his book, "The Life and Times of Lord Strathcona." The sentence in this review to which Mr. Preston particularly objected were those describing the book as making "an attack of sustained malevolence on the character of the late high commissioner," the final line being, "There is no doubt a suitable name for this sort of thing in Canada; in England it is called mud-slinging."

Mr. Preston conducted his case personally. He admitted that his relations with Lord Strathcona had always been friendly. His book had drawn attention to the state of public morals in Canada as a direct result of the methods of Lord Strathcona and his associates.

"The whole public life of my country," declared Preston, "was absolutely demoralized. The purity which had existed previously practically had passed away. The Dominion parliament had become the medium which created fortunes through the manipulation of Lord Strathcona's syndicates. All these things received publicity at the time in the British press and therefore I was setting in my book nothing which had not been made public already."

Mr. Justice Darling said he would tell the jury there was on the face of it libel. It would be for the defendant to convince the jury that the comment made was fair.

In cross-examination Mr. Preston objected to Lord Strathcona being described as a great statesman.

Defendant's Counsel—Would you agree that it would be wrong and unfair to hold up Strathcona's life as an unrelieved picture of covetousness, duplicity, meanness and corruption?

Mr. Preston—I would.

Alluding to Lord Strathcona's burial, the judge remarked that burial in Westminster Abbey would not make a bad man into a good one.

Counsel proceeded to read several passages from the book.

"Quite true," said the author, "but at the end of each passage."

The remainder of the book," pursued counsel, "is to the effect that Lord Strathcona was out to get a vast amount of public money into his own hands."

"Absolutely," replied the witness.

"Using it for his own gain and political intrigue?"

"In every possible kind," said Mr. Preston.

"And deserting at the most appropriate moment the political leaders with whom he worked?"

"Precisely," asserted Mr. Preston. Mr. Justice Darling—"Is it your view that his intervention in politics and changes from one side to another were directed entirely to gaining advantage for the Hudson's Bay company and the Canadian Pacific railway?"

Witness—"For himself as leader of the syndicate in the Canadian Pacific."

AGED WOMAN WAS IN WATER FOUR HOURS

Was Picked Up By a Small Boat; Forty-four in One Collapsible Boat

London, May 11.—George Harrison, a miner who was returning on the Lusitania to enlist in the British army, says that among the people in his boat was Lady Allan. One aged white-haired woman was in the water four hours before being picked up by the boat in which Harrison was. This boat collides with many floating bodies.

Mrs. Phoebe Amery, of Toronto, one of the survivors, on reaching London from Queenstown was met by two of her sons, who are with the Canadian contingent. She intended to pay the boys a surprise visit and the first they knew of her having been aboard the Lusitania was the receipt of a telegram from Queenstown saying that she was safe. A third son is already at the front.

Stanley B. Lines, of Toronto, states that he was seated at luncheon with his wife when he heard a great explosion. The first thought of everyone was to get out. The ship heeled over so sharply that by the time the passengers reached deck they were falling against the rails.

Lines managed to get his wife to the first deck, where three boats were being got out. He put her into the third and it lowered safely. As he turned to look for a life-belt, the ship began to sink. He fell into the water and grasped a life-belt which was flung toward him. Ten minutes later he was pulled out to a raft. This raft cruised around looking for other survivors and picked up a few.

Later one of the survivors on the raft boarded a collapsible boat, raising the number in it to forty-four. They were afterwards picked up by one of the rescue vessels.

ABOUT FLOUR

AMERICAN OPINION AS REFLECTED IN PRESS

The New York Tribune:

"For every American citizen one will stand out clear and beyond all else (as a result of the sinking of the Lusitania). In defiance not alone of every principle of international law, but of every dictate of common humanity, American men, women and children, citizens of this neutral nation, have been exposed to death, actually or been murdered by German sailors. For this murder there is no justification outside of that law of necessity paraded by the German chancellor in the opening hours."

"From this tragedy we now shall turn to Washington. More than a century ago, when this nation was weak and its people were lacking in all the resources of a great power, it made answer to the pirates of the Barbary coast, who asserted a prerogative less intolerable than that which now is asserted in Berlin, and executed upon the high seas. No voice will be raised; no effort will be made to force the hand, to hasten the action of the president of the United States, but neither he nor any other official in our government can mistake the temper in which fellow citizens will wait. They will wait with the casualty list in hand, and then what can there be left for men or for nations to do but to resort to that method which in all ages has been the last resort against tyranny and anarchy."

"The nation which remembered the sailors of the Maine will not forget the civilians of the Lusitania."

The New York World:

"The whole German submarine policy in its campaign not against British ships of war, but against merchantmen on the high seas, is a revival of piracy—piracy organized, systematized and nationalized. Modern history affords no other such example of a great nation running amuck and calling it military necessity. We recall no other instance in which a great nation deliberately has elected to become an outlaw." A cartoon showing civilization receling in horror from the kaiser is printed on the same page under the heading "The Lusitania's Lesson: Let Our People Feed It."

New York American:

"As to its cruel, and in the end futile and useless violation of every principle of ordinary humanity, there can be no two opinions. It is the sinking of the Lusitania (must), however, teach the people of the United States, who read with horror the list of their fellow countrymen sacrificed to the red rage of Europe, that a nation can rely upon nothing for its own protection and for the safeguarding of its own citizens except its own physical power to protect them against all menace."

The New York Sun:

"There is no further reason for national excitement; no occasion for pressure upon the administration for action more emphatic than that which has been undertaken to date in the case of the Lusitania."

The remainder of the book," pursued counsel, "is to the effect that Lord Strathcona was out to get a vast amount of public money into his own hands."

"Absolutely," replied the witness.

"Using it for his own gain and political intrigue?"

"In every possible kind," said Mr. Preston.

DECLINES TO DISCUSS DETAILS OF OUTRAGE

Churchill Says That Sinking of Lusitania Will Be Investigated Fully

London, May 11.—The admiralty had general knowledge of the German warning issued in the United States," said Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, speaking in the House of Commons yesterday. "From that knowledge and other information concerning submarine movements, it fine warning to the Lusitania and directions as to her course. I think, however, that it is not right to go into that matter in detail, as it is going to be a subject of inquiry and it might appear I was endeavoring to throw the blame on the captain of the Lusitania in a matter which will be the subject of full investigation."

"The investigation will be conducted by Lord Mersey, assisted by skilled assessors, and it will be opened without avoidable delay."

Mr. Churchill's remarks were drawn by questions from Lord Charles Beresford and others who asked for details as to what speed the Lusitania was making when she was torpedoed; whether there was a patrol boat in that locality; whether all points where vessels arrive and depart are patrolled adequately now; what provisions were made in the case of the Lusitania in view of the warning issued in the United States; whether Mr. Churchill was aware that previously to last Friday, German submarines for some time had been actively at work on the south coast of Ireland; whether he was aware that the admiralty had provided torpedo boat destroyers or other naval vessels to meet on the south coast of Ireland steamships carrying horses from the United States on government account to convoy them to Liverpool, and finally, what arrangements were made to convoy and protect the Lusitania.

"In the direction of Otranto our troops have dislodged the Turks from their position and have driven them back to the southwest. In their hurried retreat the Turks abandoned a large quantity of tents and munitions."

"In the direction of Tabriz the Turks have been driven from South Pass, and have been driven to the village there."

Washington, May 11.—Colonel Golejewski, military attaché of the Russian embassy here, issued the following statement last night:

"The result of the enemy's advance in Western Galicia is: The withdrawal of the right flank of our forces in Galicia for a distance of about 30 miles, and the re-crossing of one of our divisions from the Hungarian slope of the Carpathians into Western Galicia. The rest of our line in the Carpathians, as well as in the trans-Caspian region, is being maintained without any changes."

"QUO VADIS?"

To-day history is repeating itself. The eyes of the world are turned to Rome. Italy has reached the moment of her great decision. In some quarters it is reported that Germany and Austria, anticipating a collision, already have declared war. In others it is said that Italy has issued a declaration. There is no confirmation of any of these rumors up to the time of this writing. A Switzerland dispatch to a well-known French newspaper agency says the Austrian, German and Italian representatives accredited to the various governments have made arrangements for their departure. From the welter of reports, however, certain points are clear and definite. Italy submitted her minimum demands upon Austria to Vienna last week and the time limit has expired. Those demands comprised the cession of the whole of Trent and a part of Istria, including Trieste. It is almost a foregone conclusion that whatever may be the attitude of the central empires in regard to Trent they will not surrender Trieste. That celebrated seaport is regarded as the lung of the Teutonic alliance. Its loss would be equivalent to the capitulation of Austria as a Mediterranean power. The proud oligarchy of Vienna would perish rather than see it ceded to a nation which obtained it without a blow.

It is true, also, that almost all intercourse between Italy and her late partners has been severed. Austrian and Bavarian troops are being massed in the Tyrol. Italians are flying from Germany in thousands and German and Austrians, including men of business, newspaper correspondents and officials of various classes, are moving homeward as rapidly as they can. All Italian reservists, even as far back as the class of 1886, have been called to the colors, and three-quarters of a million men have been concentrated by Italy within a day's march of the Austrian frontier. Most significant of all is the departure of ecclesiastics accredited to the Vatican, which would know definitely what answer Vienna intended to make to Italy's demands.

It is altogether likely that, when convinced that intervention is inevitable, Germany, consistent with her course from the beginning of the war, will make the first aggressive move. Whether she feels strong enough to demand of Switzerland permission to use that country as a base against her new assailant remains to be seen. She may count upon the co-operation of the large German element in certain districts of the Alpine republic, but the effort of pan-Germanists there would be counteracted by the very decided French and Italian influence in other parts of the state. But if she counts upon the record of history she will leave Switzerland strictly alone. The little republic, which for centuries has held its flag of independence and freedom aloft through a hundred campaignsraging all about it, will be true to its immemorial tradition. Switzerland will fight, an earnest of which was given the other day in a decree calling the sixth division of the army to the colors.

Italy's intervention now would help the allies much more effectively than it would have helped them last winter or early in the year. It would come when the German resources had reached their maximum capacity, when the defense of the Tyrol was entrusted to third-class soldiers owing to the necessities of the Galician and Carpathian operations. It would cut off a broad avenue of supplies from the central empires and almost certainly would influence similar intervention on the part of Balkan states now trembling in the balance. Italian intervention six months ago might have been bad for both Italy and the allies. Now it would have a very decisive bearing upon the duration of the war, compelling the Huns to abandon Turkey to her fate, weaken their eastern or western fronts or expose themselves to invasion in their most vulnerable quarter—the south. Rome once more is the key city of the world.

AN OFFICIAL ASSURANCE.

It has been reported to the police that servants discharged from Government House have put in circulation false and misleading stories to the effect that Austrians and Germans are employed there. Upon inquiry we have been assured that neither now nor at any time have any Germans or Austrians been employed at Government House, and that other absurd stories also circulated by interested parties have no foundation whatsoever and should be disregarded.

NOTHING DONE.

Nothing has been done by the authorities in the case of the Chinese woman torn from her home a short time ago and forcibly deported to China in defiance of the law. The excuse given is that the city has no money to spend on proceedings to restore the victim of this outrage to her home and for the punishment of her assailants. The amount required is said to be four hundred dollars. If the city of Victoria is not able to expend that insignificant sum to vindicate the law and protect its residents we have reached a sorry condition of affairs.

A crime has been committed and the liberty of a person entitled to the protection of our law interfered with. One of the criminals has gone to China; the other remained in the city. If it cost a thousand dollars to deal with this matter, it should be dealt with. Many times that sum has been wasted on non-essentials and for that matter is being wasted still. Pusillanimity in such a case is as great a crime as the original offence.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S DILEMMA.

The New-York Herald, commenting upon the sinking of the United States steamer Gulflight and the anticipated action of Mr. Wilson thereon, says "the president stands on firm ground, with the nation solidly behind him. He must see to it that the 'Jolly Roger' is hauled down by Germany or he must haul it down himself." Judging by the comments of leading American newspapers which we publish to-day, the nation is even more solidly behind the president in any action he may take following the atrocious outrage of the destruction of the Lusitania, with the loss of over a hundred American lives, and yet the ground beneath the feet of Mr. Wilson seems far from solid.

In fact, considering his comments, the president seems to be more solicitous for the support of the German element in the United States than for the approval of civilization. Still the issues are of tremendous import, and we must make allowances for the difficulties of them. In handling domestic issues the president has proved himself a man of courage and determination. He has had little practical experience in the wider field of foreign affairs, and a situation has been precipitated which will plumb the depths of the capacity of a great and courageous man. One thing is certain, President Wilson is not going to be a Roosevelt in impetuosity and action. Whatever he does, he will take his own time in doing it.

CANADA'S REPLY.

Canada's reply to the Lusitania outrage should be an increase in the force to be maintained permanently at the front. The number originally decided upon was fifty thousand men; then it was reduced to two divisions, or thirty-seven thousand. It should be not less than two army corps, or approximately eighty thousand men. This is not an impossible performance. If the enlisted in this country were as large in proportion to the population as it is in the United Kingdom, Canada today would have four hundred thousand men under arms.

To the layman the delay in sending our soldiers to the front at first blush seems inexplicable. There are almost a hundred thousand men under arms in Canada at the present time, practically all of whom are chafing to get to the seat of war. Yet, although more than nine months have passed, only the first contingent and a portion of those who have crossed the ocean. The first lost a considerable part of its strength at the battle of Ypres and its ranks have been filled, but this must have caused a heavy drain upon our reserves. Of course there may be difficulties of transport and convoy. The navy is more fully engaged now than it was when the first contingent went abroad.

Troops and supplies must be poured into France in ever-increasing volume. Men and war munitions are required at the Dardanelles, while no doubt the opening of the route to Archangel imposes another onerous duty and responsibility upon the admiralty.

All Canada is determined to do its utmost to punish the Hun for their crimes against humanity, and the best way in which this can be done is to strike the blow where it will be most effective, that is, at the heart of the German empire. The day of retribution is not yet. As long as the Germans are in possession of the greater part of northern France, Belgium and Russian Poland, they can regard our demonstrations of anger with complete indifference. Therefore the duty of the moment, to be discharged with unconquerable resolution, is to smash their military power on the field of Europe. When that happens, as it will happen if this empire devotes itself entirely and unfeignedly to the work, Germany will drink to the very dregs the cup she has held up to others. This is the objective which men like Kitchener, Joffre, French, Fisher and the Grand Duke never lose sight of. While no doubt they are stirred to anger by the atrocious activities of the brutal enemy, they never permit their resentment to distract their iron grip on the situation, for that would be fatal, as it would be doing precisely what the German higher command wants them to do.

THE LOOTING.

Whatever extenuating circumstances may be urged in connection with the disturbance in this city in the first instance, certainly do not apply to the wholesale looting that ensued. Men, women and children indulged in an orgy of pillage without hindrance, stolen goods of all descriptions were taken from the various establishments wrecked, in sacks carried on their backs and even in motor cars, under the very eyes of the police. The tendency to loot was not directed altogether at concerns with German names, and a very short step indeed would have made the reign of lawlessness general.

We are free to admit that it would have been difficult for the authorities to cope with the situation in its initial stages on Saturday night owing to the suddenness of the outbreak and the general sentiment of anger which vented itself in the destruction of two establishments. But an effort should have been made by the police to prevent this wave of resentment from degenerating into a crusade of pillage on a large scale. The quiescence of those to whom is entrusted the duty of enforcing the law simply encouraged the incorrigible element among the crowd to do its worst, and its example was followed by reputable people who, it is charitable to assume, in their excitement overlooked the fact that they were making themselves liable to prison sentences.

Undoubtedly the confidence of the citizens in the ability and disposition of the authorities to enforce law and order at every cost in a crisis has been rudely jarred. Situations such as these require prompt action on the part of executive officials. The people discovered looting should have been taken in charge by the police; and if this were found physically impossible their names should have been noted. We are very much mistaken, however, if a few dozen arrests early in the proceedings would not have been a salutary lesson.

We have received a number of letters which in ordinary times and under different circumstances we might publish, space permitting. But the times are extraordinary and we cannot be parties to the circulation of matter that might be the occasion of further trouble and turmoil in our hitherto peaceful and law-abiding city, and of injury to inoffensive parties.

FORBEARANCE.

Albany Journal.

In less troublous times such a note as this would hardly have been referred to the government, and there gave to the press might be regarded as sufficient cause to demand his recall. Because the conditions are as they are, his breach of the diplomatic proprieties will probably be overlooked, and the note in reply to his will be so worded as to make plain some things concerning which there has been misapprehension on Germany's part.

STUPIDITY.

Province Journal.

Now comes Count von Bernstorff with this memorandum in which the charge is bluntly made that we are untrue to the spirit of neutrality in permitting shipments of munitions to the allies. This memorandum bears evidence of a growing irritation on the part of its authors. It is not couched in the smooth terms with which diplomatic intercourse is familiar. Its effect, if not its intent, must be to arouse further resentment in the United States against German methods—and this at a moment when Germany would better be making friends than enemies.

Since the letter was sent numerous despatches have stated that the warships of the allies have kept up the bombardment with great violence, thousands of shells having been thrown.

London, May 11.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Athens says:

"The Turks are making desperate attacks every night on the allied positions at the Dardanelles, but without result thus far. They succeeded in surrounding half a company of Australian troops, whom they massacred, although the Australians fought determinedly."

"One thousand notables have been arrested in Smyrna on orders from Constantinople."

London, May 11.—The British press representative at the Dardanelles, under date of April 30, has written the following account of operations on the peninsula:

"While the Australians and the New Zealanders were fighting so gallantly against heavy odds north of Gaba Tepe, British troops crowned themselves with equal laurels at the southern end of the Gallipoli Peninsula. A firm footing now has been obtained. The line stretches across the southern end of the entire peninsula with both flanks secured by fire of warship. The army holds many convenient landing places, immune from the enemy's guns."

"The problems British landing parties faced differed from those the Australians solved further north. Here the cliffs are not high and irregular, but rise about 50 feet from the water's edge, with stretches of beach at intervals. Five of these beaches were selected for disembarkation under cover of the warships. It was hoped that the Turkish trenches would be rendered untenable and the barbed wire entanglements cut by the fire of the ships, but these expectations were not realized.

"For example, the landing place between Gaba Tepe and Cape Helles was the scene of a desperate struggle which raged all day. The Turks held in force trenches protected with barbed wire, and their snipers covered the foreshore. After hours of bombardment the troops were taken ashore at daybreak. Part of the force scaled the heights and obtained a precarious footing on the edge of the cliffs, but boats which were landed along the beach were confronted with a solid hedge of barbed wire and exposed to a terrific crossfire. Every effort was made to cut the wire, but almost all those who landed there were shot down. Later the troops on the cliffs succeeded in driving back the Turks and clearing the beach.

"The most difficult of all landings, however, was on the beach between Cape Helles and Seddul Bahr. Here the broken valley runs inland, enfiladed by hills on either flank, in which were built strong forts which defended the entrance to the straits until they were knocked out by naval guns. Although the guns and emplacements were shattered, the bomb-proof shelter and ammunition chambers remained intact, and, running back, formed a perfect network of trenches and entanglements right around the semi-circular valley. The Turks had mounted pompons on Cape Helles, and had the usual spurs concealed every-

Mr. Fitzpatrick—
Having an attack of asthma a year ago, I was advised to try your Indian Herb Cure. Which I did, and I can truly say I have not had any signs of it since. And send me some for my personal use, and for other sufferers, which I would highly recommend them to try.

Willows Camp Excursion.—The moonlight excursion under the auspices of the Willows camp, which was to have taken place last evening, was postponed until Saturday evening owing to the anti-German riots last week-end.

Lady Douglas Chapter—The regular meeting of the Garden City Women's Institute will be held at 2 p.m., to-morrow at the residence of Mrs. Home. The afternoon will be devoted to Red Cross work and a full attendance is requested.

Red Cross Meeting.—A meeting of the Garden City Women's institute will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for Red Cross work. Bandages and other Red Cross supplies will be made. All women of Ward 4 are requested to be present.

Maccabees' Rummage Sale.—Queen Alexandra Hive No. 11 L. O. T. M. will hold a rummage sale in the Scott block, Douglas street, on Thursday, May 13, from two to five. A committee will be there on the afternoon of May 12 to receive contributions.

Lecture on Part.—Mme. Sanderson delivered a very interesting lantern lecture at the First Unitarian church last Friday under the auspices of the Women's alliance. The subject of her talk was "Paris" whose history and associations were cleverly told. In addition to the lecture there was a sale of aprons and candy.

Red Cross Dance.—Thursday evening the Red Cross branch of ward two, Saanich, will hold a dance in St. John's hall. Dancing will commence at 9:30 and continue to 2 o'clock. Miss Morris' orchestra has been engaged for the evening. Tickets are on sale at Dean and Hiscocks, at McArthur's drug store, Douglas street, and at Thom's Market, Douglas street.

Blue Cross Society.—Many urgent appeals for help in connection with the Blue Cross reach the city from time to time, and in order that Victoria may not be behind hand in assisting so great a cause, it has been decided to start a branch society in connection with the W. A. of the S. P. C. A. The Blue Cross society, the object of which is to help wounded horses on battle fields, was started at the time of the Balkan war, and has for its president the wife of Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien, Lord Lansdale is president of the A. V. C., for which the Blue Cross is urgently soliciting help. There are many animals used in warfare—horses, mules, camels and dogs—and most of these are called upon to undergo unparalleled suffering. The pets of soldiers and sailors are also taken care of, free of charge, whilst their owners are on active service, so that the need of funds to carry on the many branches of human work is obvious. By the kind permission of D. E. Campbell, his store on Fort street will be the headquarters of the Blue Cross relief, and a collection box will be placed there. All subscriptions, however small, will be thankfully received, and as the need is urgent, the society hopes to be in a position to dispatch a sum of money at once to London.

PTE. SIDNEY WEBB

KILLED AT YPRES

News of Death Received in City To-day; Lived Here
Five Years

Another Victoria boy has met a hero's death in the fields of Belgium. News was received in the city this morning that Pte. Sidney Webb, of Victoria, was among the killed in the great battle at Ypres last month.

Pte. Webb had been in Victoria for five years, prior to his departure for the front with the first contingent. He was in the 7th Battalion and left here with the 8th Regiment. He was 21 years of age.

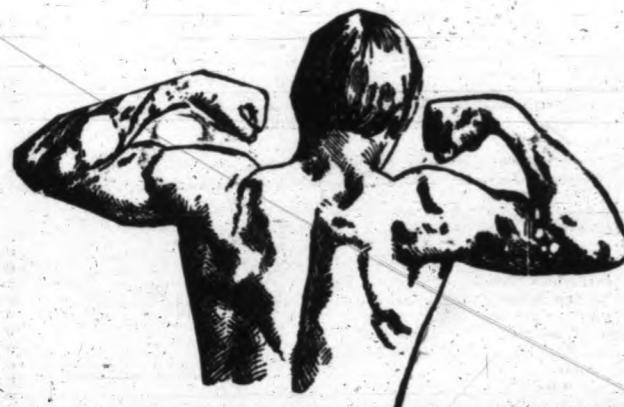

He was formerly an employee of the Canadian Pacific railway, and was a member of the staff of the Princess Charlotte. He was exceedingly popular in the town, and a wide circle of friends will mourn his loss. The news of his untimely end was received by A. Pevey, his brother-in-law, who is with Hickman Tie Co.

News has been received to the effect that J. E. P. McPherson, who was wounded at Ypres, is progressing favorably. His injury is slight, his left hand being damaged by a shell splinter.

THIN, RUN DOWN MEN AND WOMEN

GAIN IN WEIGHT FROM TEN TO FORTY POUNDS

Sargol, the Flesh Builder, Gives New Life, New Strength, New Vitality and Puts Firm Healthy, Stay-There Flesh on People Who Are Underweight

When I started taking Sargol I weighed 120 pounds. Now I weigh 156, says J. G. Wilson. It put new life and energy into me. H. A. McCullum reports he gained 22 pounds and his health was made perfect, sleeps better and feels better than for 30 years. Miss Maud Smith reports a gain of 10 pounds and still gaining. Health greatly improved. When thousands of hundreds of other once thin "underweight" people write to me that as soon as they began to make Sargol a part of their meals they began to get fat, don't you think that there must be something in this widely advertised method of flesh building? After all, there is nothing to it but to try it, particularly as leading druggists everywhere give the positive guarantee that unless it makes you fat, in your weight you can have your money back.

You may say "thin because you eat less, fat because you eat more." No, nothing can make me fat," but until you have tried Sargol you do not and cannot know that this is true.

This folks stay thin no matter what or how much they eat and they begin to think food has nothing to do with their making fat. They are wrong.

They keep very thin because the fats, starches, sugars and other flesh and fat-making elements in their food are mostly passing out of their bodies as waste. Only enough nourishment is retained to keep them going. Nothing is saved for flesh making.

Sargol of itself will not make fat. Eat it between meals and you probably will not gain a pound. But eat a single meal with every meal and you will gain a pound of flesh a day. Sargol is the missing link between food-eating and fat-making. It makes the food of your meals put flesh on your body.

JUDGMENT IS GIVEN FOR THE W. C. T. U.

Application Under Moratorium
Act Granted in County
Court to Soldier's Wife

Judgment for $322.75 was given by Judge Lampman this morning in the county court case brought by the Victoria Central Women's Christian Temperance Union against the Phoenix Brewing company. The judgment is divided into three parts: $20.75 being on account of damage to the paper in the bedrooms, $200 for loss of rent in connection with a store on the street front, and $102 for loss sustained in connection with the upstairs rooms.

The plaintiff's action arose from alterations that the defendants were making to a building adjoining. The plaintiff claimed and the judge so found that by the alterations to the party wall the defendant left bedrooms exposed to the elements and made the ground floor space unfit for occupation for a time.

His honor after giving judgment remarked to Mr. Robertson, appearing for the defendant, that the brewery company appeared at the present time to be having rather a hard time of it.

An order was made in chambers for judgment for the plaintiff for $780.55 in the action of Moncrieff against Hawkin. A counter claim was dismissed and execution was stayed until May 14 at noon to allow an application under the moratorium to be brought. The action concerns real estate payments.

A moratorium application was made on behalf of Mrs. Harriett Boughton, who is the owner of a house on Marine avenue, Oak Bay, which she acquired in a trade for stated value of $10,160. J. M. Muirhead was the original vendor, and is seeking to protect his interests. Mrs. Boughton being a third party to the action. She gave a house in trade for the property she now has, and resides in it with her children.

She explained this morning that her husband had joined the Canadian contingent last August, and she is in receipt for $40 per month from his pay and separation allowance, and this is her sole means of support now for herself and children. She has interests, she said, in other property not in Victoria, but because of the financial pressure cannot get revenue from it. She asked that she be given the protection of the moratorium, as she would like to get something out of the property if it could be sold. She had paid about $4,800 into it through her payments on the house she traded.

His honor granted a stay for two months.

MANY CHARGED WITH HAVING STOLEN GOODS

Two Men Sent to Jail; Eleven
Others Remanded; Boys
Charged

The first batch of police court prosecutions arising out of the acts of the mob on Saturday night occupied the time of the court to-day until nearly 1 o'clock. Thirteen men were charged with retaining goods knowing them to have been stolen, and in two cases the men were sent to prison.

As a result of mixing in a crowd which for a time last evening threatened to be a riotous one, three youths were up on charges of being in an unlawful assembly, and were dealt with leniently only for the reason that all are youths and that all are steady at work. It was made very plain by the magistrate, however, that this leniency is not to be taken as precedent, and that any further cases will be dealt with in a severe way.

George Raptis, Nick Raptis, Thomas Raptis, George Kapis, James Fahey, Peter Marvaris, William Trenafelle and John Kolteris were charged with the retention of stolen property belonging to Lenz and Leiser, Loewenberg and Company, and Schaper and Glass, consisting of cloth, socks, pipes and tobacco pouches.

These men were all represented by J. A. Alkman and were remanded until Friday without election or pleading.

Ball was granted in $1,000 and two sureties in $500 in each case. All of these men were arrested by Detective Vernon, Daft and Simmons told their stories, all claiming that they were innocent spectators attracted by a crowd on the street. A brother of Vernon's testified on his behalf.

"Owing entirely to the fact that you are young fellows in regular employment I am inclined to deal with you leniently," said his worship after reviewing the evidence. "By your presence in that crowd you were members of an unlawful assembly which, if it had not been checked by the police, would very likely have caused a repetition of the events of Saturday and Sunday nights. You have probably had your lesson and I will allow you suspended sentence, but you must recognise that you are placed on your good behavior."

"I hope that it will be a lesson to others, too, that this taking part with crowds in unruly and riotous conduct will lead to their standing in that dock. You lads have seen this morning the result of the actions of crowds in the sentencing to jail of men who were found in possession of things stolen from warehouses broken into by mobs. This leniency must not be taken as a precedent. Any further disturbances will be dealt with in a severe way."

John Castro pleaded not guilty to being in possession of socks and pipes, the property of the firms named. He said there were four socks and two pipes that "I found in the street."

His case will be heard to-morrow. William Costisios, who was arraigned yesterday, was again set over for a day for trial.

James Saltmarsh and Thomas Bonelli, the latter a ticket-of-leave man, got jail sentences for their offences.

The strange manner in which goods that they knew not to belong to them found a way to their rooms is likely to be the claim of others to be arrested to-day and to-morrow.

When Bounell's case was called he demanded that the charge be read over to him again, and on that being done he said he did not want to be tried there. The value being under $10 he had to be tried in police court without any option.

Detectives Heather and Edens told of a search of the man's room in the Angel rooms, where they found a bundle of new socks, a pipe and a ticket-of-leave in a bureau drawer.

Later Bounell approached them on Yates street, and told them he had picked up the socks and pipe on the street on Saturday night, but that he had not been in any crowd. Edens added that the man had been one week in the city and to his knowledge had worked for three days last week and had another job to go to. He had not been seen in the crowd Saturday night and had not been noticed drinking. His statement yesterday afternoon was a perfect voluntary one.

Mr. Lenz identified the socks as similar to those in stock when the mob broke into his warehouse.

Bounell had come out of New Westminster penitentiary on April 30. He swore that he had not been in the crowd Saturday night, but on being attracted by the disturbance left his room and went to the corner of Yates and Langley street, where he remained for half an hour watching the crowd. He picked the socks up from where they were lying loose in the street. To the court he admitted that he knew they had been taken out of some person's store.

A sentence of two months' hard labor was imposed.

In the Saltmarsh case Detective Heather told of a search made in the man's room in the Angel rooms, where four bolts of cloth were found. Saltmarsh's story was that when he had got home he found the stuff lying on his door in the hallway.

Provincial Constable Owens saw the accused walk along Langley street and into the Angel rooms late on Saturday night with two bolts of cloth in his arms.

Mr. Lenz identified the cloth, which was worth between $50 and $60.

Saltmarsh repeated the same "yarn" he had given the officers, and explained that he had put the cloth under his bed to keep it safe. "I wasn't going to lay it out of the window," he said.

He was sentenced to jail for three months at hard labor.

GERMAN PRISONERS ARE VERY BOASTFUL

They Are Confident Germany Will Be Victorious; What They Did Not Know

Some amusing ideas which the Germans have regarding Britain and an indication of the utter lack of knowledge of the true state of affairs with reference to the situation have been gained by a representative of the Daily Mail, who was permitted by the French authorities to visit and talk freely with German prisoners of war and interned civilians at Tours, Chateauroux, and Issoudun. Out on the barrack ground of Issoudun the correspondent met two German prisoners who could speak English—a cavalryman belonging to one of the smartest regiments in Prussia and a boy from Hamburg, who had been in a shipping office.

The following conversation took place:

We Shall, of Course, Win.
"When do you think the war will end?"

"In November," said the cavalryman, who spoke the English of his mother, a Brixton woman. "We shall, of course, win."

"That is not the impression outside Germany. You know the Russians have taken Przemysl!"

"That was against the Australians. We—he put an emphasis on the word—"have beaten the Russians. They are finished."

"But if Roumania and Italy come in don't you think Austria will be crushed?"

In Time We Shall Do Everything. "Italy can have all she wants for the "frightfulness," and the question was asked:

"What is the good of enraging the world by pouring burning petrol on men in order to gain a few yards of trenches?"

The Prussian replied with a curious evasion of the question and a direct assertion.

"That will soon be over," he said. "When the dry weather comes we shall be able to move our heavy artillery and then we shall advance once more." Other German prisoners gathered round and looked in the faces of those who could speak English as if trying to catch a reflection of the things they were being told. They knew about the British victory at Neuve Chapelle but considered it an incident only, and did not realize how much was due to the weight and accuracy of British artillery.

We Did Not Think the Irish Would Fight.

"Your infantry are good," said a third English-speaking prisoner. "I have fought against Irish regiments. We made a mistake there. We did not think the Irish would fight, but the blacks are no good. And you have no heavy guns."

Again it became necessary to add a little to their store of knowledge regarding the progress of events since the New Year. Their faces were longer when the talk was over, but they brightened up with the suggestion that the new English army, and the new French army, and the forming of the Dardanelles, and a few more cheery suggestions about the participation of the United States should the U-28 sink a United States vessel, would tend to shorten the war and send them all home again.

The year after he went to Nebraska, in 1888, William Jennings Bryan delivered fifty speeches, against the Republican candidate for governor, and in each one made it clear why he should not be elected. He was elected, however, by the usual majority. "On the following St. Patrick's Day," says Mr. Bryan, "I was to make a short speech, and Governor Thayer, who I had tried to defeat, presided. It was a varied programme, consisting of songs and speeches and vaudeville numbers. It was the first time I had been in the presence of the governor, and I wondered whether he felt any resentment toward me for all the work I had done against him. At last my turn was reached. The governor, having been prompted by another man, arose and said: 'The next person on the programme is W. J. Bryan,' and as I came forward, he stepped toward me, smiled, and extended his hand. I felt greatly pleased that he did not harbor any resentment against me and grasped his hand warmly, as he drew me toward him and whispered: 'Quick! Do you speak sing or dance?' He had never even heard of me."

"What does America think about the war?" asked the cavalryman.

"America knows," said the journalist, who was once a United States senator and a Roosevelt roughrider in the Cuban war; "that she cannot afford to let Germany win. We can't let any nation that keeps a million men under arms rule the world."

"Frightfulness." The conversation went back to

They were asked, "has no one told you that the mail and passenger boats are running as usual, and that out of thousands of vessels entering British ports every week, your submarines do not get more than three or four?"

The faces of the prisoners showed their disappointment plainly.

An American journalist joined in the conversation.

"Why do your people sink merchant ships and civilians on board and never give them a chance to save their lives? That sort of thing won't win any battles for you, and only exasperates neutral countries."

Vancouver Business Man Amongst Missing

K. J. MORRISON

On his way to England on private business, Mr. Morrison was on the Lusitania. His name is not on the list of those saved. He was about 45 years of age and was a Canadian of fine type. His family resides on Robson street, Vancouver.

Holding a glass of clear honey in his right hand, father observed, impishly: "It costs the little bees many a weary trip to fill this with sweetness from the flowers." Little Laura, who had been listening closely, exclaimed with great earnestness—Wouldn't it have been too bad if one of them had dropped the glass?"

"Have you heard how Rumley drank himself to death?" "Yes. Terrible, wasn't it? It unnerves me completely. Let's go and have a drink."

uncles and aunts and first cousins! All here! Now go to sleep!" There was a brief pause after this explosion. Then the tiny voice piped up again, but very softly, "Mamma!" "Well?" "Was that God?"

"Edith!" "Yes, Tom?" "I—I have a very important question to ask you. And—" "Yes, Tom." "Now, don't play any of your sister games on me. What is your question, Tom?" "I—I well, the fact is my name is going to be printed in the paper soon—in the paper, next to the advertisements, don't you know; and I was wondering whether it would be all alone among the deaths, or with yours among the marriages." "Oh, Tom!"

The Last Word—A little girl traveling in a sleeping car with her parents greatly objected to being put in an upper berth. She was assured that papa, mamma, and God would watch over her. She was settled in the berth at last, and the passengers were quiet for the night, when a small voice piped: "Mamma!" "Yes, dear." "You there?" "Yes, I'm here. Now go to sleep." "Papa, you there?" "Yes, I'm here. Go to sleep like a good girl." This continued at intervals for some time, until a fellow passenger lost patience and called: "We're all here—your father and mother and brothers and sisters and

UGDALE SAYS LEAGUE IS FASTER WITH SALARY LIMIT

Larry Hoffman Will Get Into Game To-day; Bonner Wins Over Old Team Mates

President D. E. Dugdale announced the Seattle club to Victoria, and it is of the opinion that the Northwestern league race this season will be closer than record. He says that the Seattle club will improve right along now, and he figures that Victoria and Spokane also have first division odds. Dugdale thinks that the new salary limit has worked wonders for the league this year, and says that it would be folly to exceed this limit. He links the clubs on the whole have younger ball players, while every team is showing improvement over 1914. Tealey Raymond was jubilant when he learned that Al. Bonner was going to pitch against the Giants yesterday, as he should have reserved his game for a couple of hours. Raymond said before the game that Bonner would not last, but this proved a very poor prophecy. The Seattle club could do very well with the former Union Association star, and as Dugdale paid $400 for Bonner's release, he did not relish the thought of Victoria picking up this hurler and using him against the Giants in a winning contest.

Ted. Kaylor will start pounding the cover off the ball from now on. Kaylor has not been hitting what he should for the last two weeks, and thinks that yesterday's pinch blow marks the turning point. Marty Nye's hitting has shown a big improvement lately, and he figures that Victoria and Spokane also have first division odds. BONNER SHOWS REAL COME BACK;

LEAFS HAVE CHANCE TO TAKE LEAD

Ninth Inning Rally Beats Seattle in Exciting Slab Duel; Kaylor Comes Through in the Pinch.

Pitching against his old team mates, Al. Bonner, the former Seattle twirler, held the Giants to four runs yesterday, while the Leaf's were hammering out five tallies of Bill Rose, Victoria coping the opening game of the series by a hair-raising rally in the ninth inning. The win shoves Victoria into a nice position to grab the lead in the League chase, and once Nye's drive got the pole they will take a lot of beating to head them off. Bonner twirled a nice game yesterday, and only in one inning, the eighth, when Seattle bunched hits for the entire allotment of runs, did he look bad.

Victoria handed Bonner a three-run lead in the fourth and fifth, only to have the Giants knock the progs from under this margin in the eighth, when four hits and a pass counted four runs for the visitors. The Leaf's went into the ninth session one run to the bad.

Cap. Nye hammered out his second hit of the day and was hunted along by Bill Menges. Haworth followed with an infield tap that Beatty could not field in time to retire the runner. Hansen, battling for Bonner, forced Nye between third and home. With two down, Victoria's chance looked gloomy, until Ted Kaylor belted one along the first base line that sent a pair of runners scampering over the plate and capped the game.

It was a nice old win, and to haul the game out of the fire tickled the locals, while it gave Bonner a chance to crow over his old club. Bonner pitched a fine game, and but for the eighth, looked like a big leaguer. He had fine control, issuing only two passes, while he also struck out five batters. His fielding was of the best, Bonner spearin a line drive from Rose's bat that had wings on it. He was backed up by air tight fielding, a double play started by Butler in the sixth nipping a possible rally.

Barth's bare handed catch of Nye's drive in the second and Beatty's display on first were the fielding features, Barth also cutting a runner off at the plate with a line throw from left field. Both clubs had ten hits, four of Seattle's clouts being dinky infield taps. Kaylor, Nye and Haworth had two hits each. Butler's timely two-bagger in the fifth scoring a pair of runs.

Umpire McGreavy worked behind the wind pad, hustling the game through in very fast time. McGreavy has the ear marks of a big leaguer, and is every bit as good as Ralph Frary, though not nearly as efficient as the latter.

Aberdeen, May 11.—Bunched hits by the locals gave Aberdeen the opening game of the season on their grounds by a score of 12 to 3.

Score— R. H. E.
Aberdeen 12 14 2
Tacoma 3 9 2
Batteries—Clark and Lewis; Peet, Peterson and Shea.

SEATTLE BOXERS

ROBBED IN SOUTH

McIntyre Declares California Judges Were Very Partial to Native Sons

Seattle, May 11.—Chet McIntyre and his four boxers, whom California is still talking about, arrived in the city last night from San Francisco, where he won two national championships, Gleason, the 125-pound boxing champion, and Ranchev the 125-pound wrestling champion. With him were Gleason, Wyard, Sontag and Baird.

Despite the fact that he has two plums picked from the tournament, McIntyre cannot discuss the tourney without getting very hot under the collar.

"When they robbed us of everything but our clothes," is the way McIntyre speaks of the California sports, "Archie Wyard, Earl Baird defeated their men farther than did Gleason, and then they gave the decision to their opponents. It was a bad deal all the way, and I have proof to show it."

McIntyre has a copy of the Bulletin, which shows that the Seattle boys were not given a square deal.

"In the semi-windup go, between Archie Wyard of Seattle," reads the Bulletin, "and the San Francisco boy, Moretto, the judges, both fellow Olympians, rendered one of those amateur rule decisions, and Moretto was declared a winner—when, as a matter of fact, it would have been treating Wyard none too fairly had Moretto merely been given the privilege of another round. This decision, which was identical with the one he obtained over Wyard in the Far Western tournament, was one of two poor ones rendered."

"The other victim was, as Wyard, a Seattle boy, Earl Baird, who was declared a loser to Molony. The latter was buffeted all over the ring and had one of his eyes split at the close. Still he was awarded the verdict."

McIntyre says that many of the eastern boys were also robbed by the San Francisco authorities, and all expressed themselves as never going to compete with Californians again unless protected by a bodyguard.

BAYLEY MAY MEET

FREDDIE WELSH

There is just a chance that Joe Bayley, the Victoria lightweight, will be seen in action at Prince Rupert next month against Freddie Welsh, the world's title holder. Bayley is now working out every day in preparation for a holiday bout, which will be held either on the Island or at Brighouse Station on Victoria Day. The local boxer is down to weight right now, and he thinks that he can knock out Rough House Burns in short order.

Prince Rupert, May 11.—There are prospects of Freddie Welsh, world's champion lightweight, being seen in Prince Rupert within a few weeks. Billy Wright, Stewart Corley and J. McAlenan are promoting it.

The champion is now back east, but he will box in Wimborne towards the end of this month, and is due to appear in Vancouver in the latter part of June. A wire was sent last night to Wimborne with the idea of having Welsh come west over the G. T. P. and give a ten-round exhibition match here on his way to Vancouver.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Victoria Has the Needed Punch.

Given any kind of pitching, that Victoria ball club will win a host of ball games this summer. The Leaf's are the most prodigious squad of fence busters that the Victoria management have ever gathered together. Yesterday's finish was of the kind that brings the fans back to the ball park. When the home club can display the old fighting spirit and win back a ball game after their opponents have the contest apparently cinched, it is worth any two of the league standing. The effect it has on the players is worth while, for it encourages them to keep on plugging. It is this spirit that has already won a bunch of games for Victoria and will win a great many more before the season closes.

Con. Jones Will Bring West a Bunch of Stars.

If the mainland lacrosse fans do not take kindly to the professional game on the coast this summer, it will not be because Conrad Jones does not give them the best brand of lacrosse in the world. Jones now has high hopes of landing Billy Fitzgerald and Newsy Lalonde, while he is also seeking Red Donthee and George Roberts for his home field. Both of these players are high-class athletes and they will round out a very formidable attack. For his defense, Jones hopes to have Fred Stage, another Toronto star, who is not only a hard check, but very valuable for the odd man system. Westminster will have a majority of their cup holders back in line and if the Vancouver club can only secure an edge at the start, the championship fight is sure to be a lively one.

Some Late Fashion Hints.

holeless socks should never be worn out. The popular colors prevailing among prize fighters are black and blue. Oxford may be worn by young men who went to that college and no others. Diamonds are as popular as ever, and no more plentiful. Black and tan will be popular during the dog show. Onion green will be one of the popular shades this summer.

GERMANY SAYS SHE IS WILLING TO PAY

New Stand Concerning Neutral
Ships Damaged in What
She Calls War Zone

Washington, May 11.—Germany, through Ambassador Gerard, to-day notified the United States that submarine commanders had been instructed specifically not to harm neutral vessels not engaged in hostile acts and that Germany would pay for damage to such ships in the war zone.

Neutral ships carrying contraband will be dealt with, the announcement says, according to the rules of naval warfare. If neutral ships are damaged accidentally in the war zone, Germany will express its regret and pay damages without prior court proceedings.

The German government seeks to justify its submarine warfare on the ground that Britain is threatening to starve the civilian population of Germany by preventing neutral commerce in foodstuffs and other necessities.

In previous communications Germany has disclaimed responsibility for any harm that might befall neutral vessels venturing into the war zone.

YOKOHAMA MARU WILL BE LATE GETTING IN

Oriental Liner Will Not Arrive
Till Friday; Deep-Sea Ships'
Movements

One day behind her schedule, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Yokohama Maru, Capt. Komatsubara, will arrive in port from the Orient on Friday, according to information received here by radiogram this morning. Shipping men were expecting the Japanese ship to-morrow as she is the fastest of the fleet, and at this season of the year usually makes William Head one day early. The advices received by the local agent state that she sailed from Yokohama on time, and the delay she has experienced must be due to heavy weather.

The Yokohama is bringing to Victoria the heaviest cargo since last December. All told she has for this port 1,208 tons, including a great deal of overland cargo, which will be transshipped to Vancouver. She also has a very valuable shipment of silk, which will be landed at Seattle.

Quite a number of salons as well as steerage passengers are coming in on this steamship, and many will disembark at this port.

Makura Sailing To-morrow.

Outwardbound for Sydney, N. S. W., via Honolulu, Suva and Auckland, the Canadian-Australian liner Makura, Capt. Phillips, is sailing to-morrow evening, according to the best local information. So far as is known, she will not be subjected to any delay through late arrival of the mails. The liner will carry south, a large number of passengers. Travel over this route is practically back to normal. The ship is loading about 2,600 tons of cargo at Vancouver.

Ixion Fully Loaded.

To-morrow at noon the Blue Funnel steamship Ixion, Capt. Sprout, is sailing for Yokohama, Hongkong and Manila, laden to her capacity with general freight. She was due to clear outwards yesterday, but has been detained on the Sound loading cargo. One hundred and fifty Chinese passengers will embark here for the trans-Pacific passage.

Talithius Returning.

To discharge several hundred tons of cargo the steamship Talithius, Capt. Culum, of the Blue Funnel fleet, is returning to Victoria on Thursday from the Sound.

Advices received to-day by the local agents of Bodwell & Co. state that the steamship Calchas will arrive in port on Sunday from Liverpool via the Suez canal.

HARRISON LINER LEAVES 'FRISCO FOR VICTORIA

San Francisco, May 11.—The British liner Crown of Norway cleared yesterday for Victoria and Seattle, where the remainder of her European cargo will be discharged.

One thousand tons of copper is included in the 3,000-ton cargo of the American-Hawaiian steamship Honolulu, which steamed for New York by way of the Panama canal to-day. Nearly half of the copper was loaded at San Francisco, the balance being shipped from Puget Sound. Although the metal is consigned to a New York firm, it is said that immediately upon arrival at the Atlantic port it will be transshipped to England. The cargo of the Honolulu also included 1,200 tons of flour, 2,500 tons of wheat and a large quantity of canned goods.

Every stateroom of the Honolulu was filled with its full quota of passengers. With the largest cabin passenger list that ever crossed the Pacific on a T.K. liner, and with nearly 6,000 tons of cargo in her holds and $1,000,000 in gold in her safe tanks, the Japanese liner Tenyo Maru arrived in port yesterday from the Orient, by way of Honolulu. The passenger congestion was due to a certain extent from taking on half a hundred passengers from the stranded Minnesota.

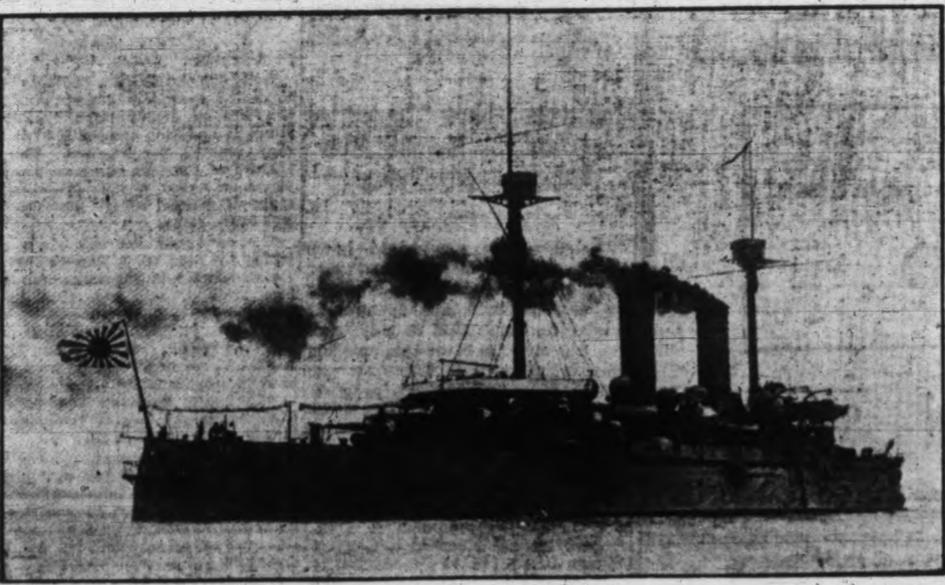

ADJOURNED UNTIL MAY 17.

Winnipeg, May 11.—The Royal Commission which is investigating matters in connection with the erection of the parliament buildings, adjourned yesterday morning until May 17, in view of developments caused by the application of Thomas Kelly & Sons for an injunction to restrain the commission from continuing its work. The adjournment was requested by government counsel and agreed to by counsel for the Liberals.

ALL ARCTIC VESSELS TRADING FROM SOUND

Frisco is Not Sending Schooners North This Year; Seattle Dispatching Five

Seattle, Wash., May 11.—With all its rugged romance of icebound ships, lost explorers, great ventures on the drifting ice pack, perilous cruises in quest of the whale or walrus, lonely hunts on the trial of the sable—and the fox, weird white days and midnight suns and all its magnificent traditions and tales of derring-do, the western sceptre of supremacy in the Arctic ocean has passed quietly and almost unnoticed in the hands of Seattle.

She was due to clear outwards yesterday, but has been detained on the Sound loading cargo. One hundred and fifty Chinese passengers will embark here for the trans-Pacific passage.

GRANBY COMES BACK TO EIGHTY-TWO MARK

Sentiment on Victoria Stock Exchange Reflects Improvement

Granby came back to-day. As evidence of the sharp intermediate swing in standard issues, this stock could have been purchased yesterday at 75 and sold to-day at 82 or over. Excepting for a five cent recession in Standard Lead, the local list did better to-day and less inclination was shown to press the selling side of values.

Glacier Creek had an inclination to move up further, but at the last stood unchanged from Monday.

Sentiment reflected improved feeling in leading markets, more especially New York, where quotations were marked up sharply.

Chicago, May 11.—Wheat prices enjoyed a substantial upturn, a matter of six cents or more above Monday's close, and last figures only fractionally off from the high point. Perhaps a report that Austria at the eleventh hour had acceded to the demands of Italy had much to do with the buying. In any case, support was of no uncertain character, and, as in stocks, bears were confronted with a number of offerings.

Damage advices of the new crop were general, but were not given important credence. It was a market the strength of which forced traders in one direction aided by the impetus of the aforesaid covering.

Bridge made a gain of 2 points, opening at 128 and closing at 130, an advance of 4 points from yesterday's close.

The tone of the market was good and stocks scarce at to-day's price.

"Inconceivable That States
Can Refrain From Taking Action," Says Roosevelt

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—Theodore Roosevelt made this statement regarding the sinking of the Lusitania:

"This represents not merely piracy, but piracy on a vaster scale of murder than any old-time pirate ever practiced.

This is the warfare which destroyed Louvain and Elsinet, and hundreds of men, women and children in Belgium. It is warfare against innocent men, women and children, traveling on the ocean, and our fellow-countrywomen, who are among the sufferers.

"It seems inconceivable that we can refrain from taking action in this matter, for we owe it not only to humanity, but to our own national self-respect."

"As a result of his having expressed himself thus, Colonel Roosevelt received a number of communications in which threats were made. Yesterday detectives were guarding the ex-president in his hotel here."

WAS FOREMAN MECHANIC

Late Thomas Astie Was Associated With the Construction of the Goldstream Main.

The death occurred last evening at St. Joseph's hospital of Thomas Astie, foreman mechanic for the Esquimalt water-works almost since they were opened. The deceased gentleman was 77 years of age, and had lived in Esquimalt for the past thirty years.

For some time he had been ill health and unable to attend to his duties, but the more serious phase of his indisposition did not reveal itself until quite recently.

The late Mr. Astie was very well known in connection with the present big main from Goldstream to the city, and with the shops of the company at Esquimalt. He was regarded as one of the most efficient and careful members of the staff and of the company.

Besides his wife he leaves a step-daughter, Mrs. Lloyd. The remains are reposing at the Victoria funeral parlors, and the funeral will take place on Thursday at 2.30, Rev. Robt. Connell officiating.

FIENDISH, DECLares
AMSTERDAM TELEGRAAF

Amsterdam, May 11.—"The torpedoing of the Lusitania," says the Telegraaf, in an editorial, "was a deliberate stage reproduction of the Titanic disaster. It was a premeditated crime against a passenger ship on which were more than 2,000 non-combatants."

"It is no longer outrageous; it has become fiendish. Does there still exist something like conscience among the neutrals?" The neutral powers remained silent when Belgium's neutrality was trampled upon, when the Germans carried out practices profaning international law and when submarine assassins took their first victims.

"Will they now look on inactively? Only the spontaneous joint protest of the entire civilized world, from which German has separated herself, can be an answer to the latest provocation."

The Hendelblad, commenting on the Lusitania, says:

"The torpedoing of the Lusitania has caused a profound impression here. A people such as ours, which always has been a scaring people, has the right, and it is its duty to express its indignation against the barbarous manner of the German warfare on the sea, which violates that which always has been respected."

"Recently the Germans sank more than twenty defenceless fishing boats. Now, without warning they have sunk a big mail steamer, the Lusitania. This act is opposed to every law and every sentiment of humanity. We raise our voice, however powerless it may be, in protest. A scaring people which has always self-righteously done and made a war on defenceless people."

The Tidit says:

"Neutrals who in these lamentable times so often have imposed restraint upon themselves in order to silence their feelings of horror, and indignation must acknowledge now that another incident can be added to all the previous violations of laws, to the atrocious interpretations of treaties and to the inhuman and devilish contrivances which Germany has been guilty of."

The Tidit says:

"The commander of the German submarine which sank the Lusitania can look with pride upon his work. Is not this so, Satan?"

SUGGEST IMPROVEMENT OF MARKET PROPERTY

Building Inspector Submits Comprehensive Scheme for Dealing With It

A report from the building inspector was received by the city council last evening, and referred to the market committee for a report. It recommended a comprehensive scheme for dealing with the market property. The property still belonging to the market consists of a frontage of 160 feet on Cormorant street, with 120 feet depth, and a yard on Fisgard street 210 by 120 feet, with various buildings thereon.

He suggested the complete transfer of the whole property, part of which is now used for storing city property, to market purposes exclusively, if the institution continued to be a success.

The sketch plan enclosed with the report provided for working costing $6,955 outside the building, and for the yard premises, $7,740.

Two contracts for options on property at the city end of the Johnson street bridge were presented, and the mayor was authorized to execute them. The lease is for one year, and any money paid thereon will go to the actual purchase price.

The council received an application from two owners of property in the market area, asking for remission of taxation because the lots were used by the school children. The communication was from Mr. James Todd, who is not political, and this matter has nothing to do with party politics. It is a matter upon which we are perfectly entitled to express an opinion. In order to prevent dissension I have inserted the word "unanimous," so that a single adverse vote will defeat it.

Alderman Porter: I concur with the mayor's remarks, and while I do not think it wise for the council to express an opinion, yet as a private citizen I would be pleased to sign a petition to that effect.

Alderman Sargent: I am sorry to say

ALDERMAN SARGENT AND COMMISSIONERS

Blames Police Commission For Setting Bad Example to Citizens

The situation with regard to the rioting came up somewhat unexpectedly last evening in city council, for after passing over two claims for damage without comment, Alderman Sargent introduced a criticism of the police commissioners in debating a resolution to approach the prime minister (Sir Robert Borden) opposing a federal election at this time.

The alderman was eventually called to order, and forced to desist, and the motion of Alderman Todd's with regard to the election was defeated by one vote, those supporting him being Aldermen McCandless, McNeill and Fuller, while Alderman Bell and Alderman McMicking did not vote.

On the motion being proposed, Alderman Dilworth appealed to the chair for a ruling.

The Mayor: We are all at liberty to express an opinion, but at the same time as a municipal council it is doubtful if it is wise to interfere in politics.

From newspaper reports it seems doubtful if an election will come for some time. I am not, however, prepared to rule the matter out of order.

Alderman Okeil: I think it very judicious, if politics are going to be introduced into this council we are going to have to allow politics here.

The Mayor: This motion is not political, and this matter has nothing to do with party politics. It is a matter upon which we are perfectly entitled to express an opinion. In order to prevent dissension I have inserted the word "unanimous," so that a single adverse vote will defeat it.

Alderman Sargent: I am sorry to say we can come of it. It is the duty of the municipality to look after its own affairs.

The people of Canada have entrusted the government of the country to Sir Robert Borden, and he can be trusted to look after its affairs, and it would be a good thing if our police commissioners would look after their department.

I remember with what indignation Alderman Todd opposed the interference of the Civic Retirement association early in the year, and the motion passed to a vote.
